MEDIA RELEASE – 04/07/2023

The New Zealand Society of Diversional and Recreational Therapy (NZSDRT) and Epic Sharing, a New Zealand based online instructional design company, have announced a new partnership that will provide professional development opportunities for NZSDRT members through self-paced online courses.

The partnership aims to enhance the skills and knowledge of Diversional and Recreational Therapists working with a wide range of people in the community and care facilities around New Zealand.

Epic Sharing specialises in developing accessible and professional e-learning courses that suit all levels of learners. The courses cover a range of topics and will be tailored for the NZSDRT members with an endorsement logo to help them find suitable courses. Once they have completed the course, they will receive a Certificate of Training that will count towards their NZSDRT registration.

Natasha Gunn, Co-director of Epic Sharing, said:

"We are delighted to partner with NZSDRT and offer our courses to their members. We believe that online learning is a flexible and convenient way to upskill and stay updated with the latest trends and best practices in diversional and recreational therapy."

"Our courses are designed by experienced Instructional Designers and we are fortunate to have our own in-house Diversional Therapist, Sue Gunn, to provide her expertise. We hope that our courses will inspire and empower NZSDRT members to improve the quality of life of the people in their care."

Orquidea Tamayo Mortera, President of NZSDRT's board, said:

"This is a great step for all of us, and particularly for our members to be able to access continued education to help them build their capability in New Zealand, but also education that has been developed by a DT like Susan."

"We encourage our members to take advantage of this partnership and enrol in the courses that interest them."

A little bit about us

Natasha Gunn
Learning Director

Epic Sharing is more than just a business. It's a community of passionate learners who want to share their knowledge and skills with the world.

The team behind Epic Sharing are award-winning instructional designers with decades of experience in creating accessible and engaging courses for everyday learners across all levels.

Epic Sharing was born out of the vision of Natasha Gunn and Karl Hartley, the Managing Directors of Epic Learning – a small New Zealand business that creates custom-made training and professional development solutions for clients in various industries. They saw the potential of making their e-learning products publicly available via an online platform that anyone can access and benefit from.

Karl Hartley
Creative Lead

Epic Sharing is proud to introduce Sue Gunn, an experienced Diversional Therapist turned Learning Designer who has been engaged to develop courses for Diversional and Recreational Therapists across New Zealand. Sue has 20+ years experience working as a DT where she developed many creative programmes and has completed the National Certificate in Diversional Therapy and the New Zealand Apprenticeship in Community Facilitation – Diversional Therapy.
